The Taliban have taken more than a dozen provincial capitals in recent days and now control more than two-thirds of the country

NEWS DESK/DNA

KABUL: Taliban insurgents detained veteran militia commander Mohammad Ismail Khan on Friday after they seized the western city of Herat, a provincial council member said. The insurgents also captured three more provincial capitals as they press a lightning offensive that is gradually encircling the capital, Kabul. The seizure of Kandahar and Herat marks the biggest prizes yet for the Taliban, who have taken 12 of Afghanistan's 34 provincial capitals as part of a weeklong blitz. Khan, who has been leading fighters against the Taliban in recent weeks, was handed over to the insurgents along with the provincial governor and security officials under a pact, provincial council member Ghulam Habib Hashimi told Reuters. "The Taliban agreed that they will not pose any threat or harm to the government officials who surrendered," Hashimi said. Khan is one of Afghanistan's most prominent warlords. Known as the Lion of Herat, he battled Soviet occupiers in the 1980s and was a key member of the Northern Alliance whose US-backed forces toppled the Taliban in 2001. Taliban spokesman Zabihullah Mujahid confirmed that Khan had been detained. Meanwhile, the capture of Lashkar Gah - Helmand's provincial capital - came after facing some of the heaviest fighting in the last two decades. Hundreds of foreign troops were killed there over the course of the nearly two-decade war. The insurgents have taken more than a dozen provincial capitals in recent days and now control more than two-thirds of the country just weeks before the US plans to withdraw its last troops. Attaullah Afghan, the head of the provincial council in Helmand, said that the Taliban captured the provincial capital of Lashkar Gah following heavy fighting and raised their white flag over governmental installations. He says that three national army bases outside of Lashkar Gah remain under the government's control.

UNDP hosts Pakistan inequality debate series

Value of the privileges of Pakistan's vested interests added up to PKR 2,660 billion in 2017-2018: UNDP Pakistan NHDR

ZUBAIR AHMAD

ISLAMABAD: UNDP Pakistan hosted the second webinar of its Pakistan Inequality Debate series today. These webinars are being held to discuss the findings of the Pakistan National Human Development Report (NHDR) 2020: The Three Ps of Inequality: Power, People, and Policy which was launched by Pakistan's Prime Minister Mr. Imran Khan in April this year. The webinar began with a plenary session, entitled "Policy as a Driver of Inequality: Centering People for Inclusive Policy", addressing the Report's emphasis on Policy. The session included Dr. Sania Nishtar, Special Assistant to the Prime Minister on Poverty Alleviation and Social Safety as the Chief Guest; Mr. Knut Ostby, Resident Representative, UNDP Pakistan; and former Federal Minister and NHDR 2020 lead author Dr. Hafiz Pasha. The panelists for the session included Dr. Shamshad Akhtar, Chairperson, Karandaz and the Pakistan Stock Exchange; Dr. Abid Suleri, Executive Director, SDPI; and feminist researcher Dr. Saba Gul Khattak. In her keynote address, Dr. Sania Nishtar spoke of the government's commitment to building a 'welfare state' where rule of law, meritocracy and transparency is guaranteed to all citizens and a social safety net is provided to marginalized segments. "This year we will cover 1 million families under Ehsaas Kafaalat, breaking a record—this will be the highest number of families ever getting regular support from the government," said Dr. Nishtar. In his welcoming remarks, UNDP Pakistan Resident Representative, Mr. Knut Ostby, highlighted policy as a core strategy through which governments determine what kind of country they want to create for citizens. "Citizen power is an important part of public policy. By participating in the political process, citizens can play an important role in defining the future of the country," said Mr. Ostby. Dr. Hafiz Pasha, when presenting the report's findings, spoke of policy in the context of areas that need redressal. "Pakistan has experienced high income and wealth inequality, with the richest groups co-opting the lion's share of national income, bank advances, farm area, and property. The NHDR 2020 shows that the value of the privileges of Pakistan's vested interests added up to PKR 2,660 billion in 2017-2018," observed Dr. Hafiz Pasha. Moderated by Mr. Mosharrarf Zaidi, CEO and Senior Fellow at Tabadlab, the panel discussion explored the role of policy in creating inequality in the country. Speakers engaged in a wide-ranging discussion covering challenges to inclusive policy making; how financial inclusion can lead to greater human development; and how the government has leveraged policy for inequality reduction in the wake of COVID-19. UNDP's Pakistan Inequality Debates continue to explore themes related to inequality at the national, provincial, and regional levels, with the goal to deconstruct Pakistan's disparities and move the country towards an Equal Pakistan.

Organic farming gaining grounds in Pakistan

Indigenous seed used in organic farming is more resilient to harsh weather than those of hybrid seeds available in the Pakistani local market, says Dr. Engineer Zia-ul-Haq

DNA

ISLAMABAD: Organic is a unique system of farming and food production. Peasants who grow 'Organic Foods' basically are serving the humanity as they care about much the most important element of life, i.e. the health. Organic farmers grow high-quality food on the basis of organic agriculture. They use those methods which benefit the whole food system, from people to planet and plant health to animal welfare so educated segment of the society is preferring to 'Organic Foods' today.

Nowadays, the human beings are facing diet related health problems more than ever before in the history. Fertilizer-based agriculture production has harmful effects on the health as much of fertilizers are made up of a number of chemicals. These chemicals are giving birth to new diseases with every passing day. New researches have pinpointed the hidden reason behind these diseases, i.e. use of inorganic foods in the daily life. Indigenous seed used in organic farming is more resilient to harsh weather than those of hybrid seeds available in the Pakistani local market, said Dr. Engineer Ziaul Haq, working as lecturer at Arid Agriculture University, Rawalpindi. He said that at least 70 percent of Pakistan's land is arid, with rainfall insufficient in some areas to grow crops without irrigation and thus why this increasingly erratic rainfall is pushing a growing share of small farmers to organic farming as it requires a smaller cash investment and is producing good yields. One farmer Zeeshan Talha from Chahan, district Rawalpindi, told media here on Friday that many people believe introducing organic farming can cut yields, but in fact the opposite is proving true. Another farmer M Nazeer from Chakri told that organic farming is gaining grounds in this land of ours with the passage of time as organic produce is healthier for the human beings that is why its acceptability is increasing day by day. An official working at Pakistan Agriculture Research Council (PARC) said that researches shows that organic farmers get better yields from their crops; therefore the area under organic agriculture is fast increasing. "If we have abundant and timely rainfall, the organic crops give around a 10 percent higher yield," he said, adding that growing crops organically also helps increase soil fertility.

Lukaku rejoins Chelsea for record fee

SPORTS DESK

LONDON: Romelu Lukaku returned to Chelsea on Thursday for a reported club record fee of £97 million ($135 million) from Inter Milan, seven years after his first spell at Stamford Bridge came to an end.

The Belgian striker was instrumental in securing Inter's first Serie A title for 11 years last season, but the Italian giants financial problems forced them into selling their prized asset to the Premier League side.

"I'm happy and blessed to be back at this wonderful club," said Lukaku, who has signed a five-year contract. "It's been a long journey for me: I came here as a kid who had a lot to learn, now I'm coming back with a lot of experience and more mature. "The way the club is going fits my ambitions perfectly at 28 and just coming off winning Serie A. I think this opportunity comes at the right time and hopefully we can have a lot of success together."

Lukaku scored 64 goals in two seasons in Italy to quickly become a hero at the San Siro. But the 28-year-old also has a proven record in the Premier League, scoring 113 goals during spells with Manchester United, Everton and West Brom.

The only blot on Lukaku's career so far was his first spell at Chelsea as he failed to score in 15 appearances. Signed as an 18-year-old as the apparent heir to Didier Drogba, Lukaku quickly grew frustrated at his lack of opportunities in the first team. Drogba was the hero as Lukaku's first season as a Chelsea player ended with them winning the Champions League for the first time in the club's history. But he later stated he felt he played "no part" in that success due to his limited game time.

Prolific loan spells with West Brom and then Everton proved Lukaku's ability to score goals in the Premier League before he made a permanent move to the Toffees in 2014.

Climate change warning

WE humans have inflicted unprecedented and irreversible change on our planet and its climate, beginning a process of forever altering how our environment will act. In a critical report, top climate scientists say that the world has very little room and time to change course to avert further disaster and calamity.

The International Panel on Climate Change, the world's leading authority on climate science, has issued its latest report on the crisis facing us all on this planet – and it would indeed be both dangerous and foolhardy to dismiss it. No, this is far more serious, far more detailed and far more critical in the need for immediate and widespread urgent action on climate change.

Right now, firefighters in southern Europe are struggling to come to terms with huge forest fires in Greece and Turkey. Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg are reeling after devastating and deadly floods. The northwest quadrant of the US and Canada is baking under unprecedented temperatures and the monsoon season is expected to be more severe than normal.

These are not freak events. They are climate emergencies brought about by our heating of this planet through carbon emissions. What's more, they serve as a timely and potent reminder that no matter where we live, we are all affected by climate change and the catastrophic effects of a nature artificially heated and altered by our collective actions and carbon inaction. And time is running out.

Scientists can point to the lack of ice in the Arctic, super-warm Siberia, the altered Gulf Stream flows, changes in global tidal patterns, more frequent storms, more regular extreme weather events, more powerful flooding, more devastating wildfires – any and all caused by our warming of the planet and its inability to process our carbon emissions.

Code red

THE recent United Nations (UN) panel on climate change, reading from the report from the scientists of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC), confirms that the situation of climate change is not as bad as we think—it is actually much worse. The report states that global warming is dangerously close to being out of control and that humans are “unequivocally” to blame. UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres described the report as a “code red for humanity”, stating that the “alarm bells are deafening”.

There are some major takeaways from the report, which is based on an analysis of more than 14,000 studies, which should be of high concern to all countries. Firstly, it is a fact that the planet is warmer than it was before and the report confirms that human influence is the major, if not sole, reason. Greater emissions, brought on by the increase in industrialisation in the world, have warmed temperatures—an effect which has impacted all parts of the world and has the potential to devastate some in the not-so-distant future. Secondly, the situation is dire and most of the damage is done. Even if countries now somehow manage to put aside their politics and implement extremely green policies to cut emissions, humans have put so much carbon dioxide and other greenhouse gases into the atmosphere that this warming will continue at least until the middle of the century.

As alarming as it is, the report still leaves room for hope. Aggressive, rapid and widespread emissions cuts, beginning now, could limit the warming beyond 2050, which can save the world in the remainder of the century from catastrophic consequences.

This is not some far-off dystopian threat—climate change is here and if emissions are not curbed, its devastation will start showing very soon, with poorer countries sure to be the worst hit. It is hoped that this terrifying report will propel the world into action.

Return of a hard-line Iran raises worrying questions

Ishtiaq Ahmed

Hence, the time ahead for the Gulf countries is fraught with potential risks. There are two major security concerns with Iran: Its support for militant proxies that cause instability across the Arab world, and its use of precision-guided missiles and drones against critical infrastructure in Saudi territory and maritime traffic in the Arabian Gulf

WITH the assumption of the Iranian presidency by a hard-line leader whose political interests seem to align with the dogmatic vision of Supreme Leader Ali Khamenei, Iran is likely to become more aggressive in its external behavior.

In his inaugural speech last week, President Ebrahim Raisi expressed his desire to have better relations with Iran's Arab neighbors, while also pronouncing Iranian militarism across the Arab world as a source of “stability and peace in various nations.”

This paradox has marked the Iranian approach toward its Arab neighbors since 1979, with Tehran aggressively seeking regional hegemony by exporting sectarianism while also keeping the pretense of brotherhood alive.

Hence, the time ahead for the Gulf countries is fraught with potential risks. There are two major security concerns with Iran: Its support for militant proxies that cause instability across the Arab world, and its use of precision-guided missiles and drones against critical infrastructure in Saudi territory and maritime traffic in the Arabian Gulf.

These concerns underscore a major security dilemma that is at the heart of two parallel negotiating processes underway since April 2021: The P5+1 (UN Security Council permanent members and Germany) talks with Iran to revive the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action (JCPOA), whose sixth round ended in June without an agreement; and the informal talks between Saudi and Iranian interlocutors, facilitated by Baghdad.

The fate of both dialogues now hangs in balance. For the new Iranian leader, “regional and missile issues are non-negotiable.” Saudi Arabia and its Gulf allies want these issues to be incorporated in the revised JCPOA. The 2015 nuclear accord failed to do so, thereby enabling Iran to expand its militant network across the Arab world, and develop precision strike capabilities using drones and guided ballistic missiles.

Consequently, Iran has stirred up regional conflict and instability through the Quds Force, militias in Iraq and in Syria, the Houthis in Yemen, Hezbollah in Lebanon and Hamas in Palestine. Iran has also put into practice its precision strike capabilities by orchestrating, directly or through the Houthis in Yemen and militias in Iraq, major attacks against critical infrastructure in Saudi Arabia. Iran also continues to target maritime traffic in the Arabian Gulf with greater vigor and has geared up the nuclear enrichment process in violation of the JCPOA.

A major reason Iran has been able to get away with its militarism and nuclear jingoism is the consistent erosion of the US military commitment in the region – a process that has accelerated under the Biden administration. In fact, by removing the Houthis from the US designated list of terrorist organizations, Washington has implicitly endorsed Iran's deadly activities in the region.

But the return of the hard-line leadership in Iran has pushed Tehran into a cul-de-sac: Biden now has to deal with an elected president facing US human rights sanctions for his role as a judge in the tribunal that awarded death sentences to thousands of Iranian citizens in 1988. Frustrated with the Iranian demands that cannot be met, US Secretary of State Antony Blinken has already said the talks to renew the JCPOA “can't go on forever.”

The US special envoy for Yemen, Tim Lenderking, has also lately discovered that the real culprits in the Yemen war are the Iranian-backed Houthis. Hence, the recent talk of the US Treasury imposing sanctions on Houthi leaders and Iran's precision strike capabilities.

With the hard-liners returning to power in Iran, the US and its allies in the region will have to work out a joint military and economic strategy to bring the Iranian leadership to its knees.

Conditions are ripe for this purpose. Iran is already crippled economically under the impact of US sanctions. The Abraham Accords have strategically aligned the Gulf against Iran. And the post-pandemic economic recovery has enabled Saudi Arabia and its Gulf allies to resume economic diversification plans, even amid persisting security threats from Iran.

The proposed strategy could entail the expansion of international economic sanctions against Iran; the redesignation of the Houthis as a terrorist entity; and an unequivocal US guarantee to protect shipping lanes in the Gulf waters against Iranian drone and missile attacks. Depending on the outcome, more punitive measures may follow.

Independence and optimism

Wajeaha Bilal

The struggle for Pakistan through history is still connected to its current political status. Our Prime Minister Imran Khan sees the US viewing Pakistan as useful only in the context of the “mess” it left behind in Afghanistan after 20 years of fighting. Pakistan's regional borders have been affected by wars on terror and the ongoing global cold wars

INDEPENDENCE IS the slogan that was raised as a founding factor for the establishment of our country. The struggle was sustained by those who sacrificed to lay the foundations of our independence. The desire for peace and prosperity is an integral part of a struggle. “You can't separate peace from freedom because no one can be at peace unless he has his freedom,” says Malcolm X. The struggle for Pakistan is inherited deeply in its existence. Its independent and democratic platform has been used or misused to achieve or sustain power.

The corrupted negativity could have destroyed our individual and collective freedom had we not stood against it. We live in a pessimist world looking for opportunities to divide and take away what truly was hard earned by our ancestors. But cynicism and negativity never helped to bring freedom or peace and certainly through an analysis of our history, we have the cure for this virus in the form of hope and elation.

The dream of our great nation was built on morality and optimism. Our founding fathers believed that an independent state was a true hope of opportunity for the struggling Muslims of the subcontinent. A dream of a separate homeland brought hope that we shall rise despite our difficulties. Political struggles in Pakistan continue to be scarred by world politics and regional instability. Mohammad Ali Jinnah had envisioned a democratic Pakistan but Pakistan faces the inevitable task of setting up government priorities alongside sustaining its regional demographics.

Since its birth on 14 August 1947, Pakistan's journey for survival has been as coercive as it has been challenging. In spite of being one of the largest Muslim states in the world, Pakistan struggled to keep its eastern wing in 1971. Pakistan's rise in the world politics, pricked its neighbor who conspired their support for separating its eastern wing. The conspiracy was driven by a neighbor's dismay and Indira Gandhi's support to counter the existence of Pakistan. Despite its strong struggle to exist, Pakistan has always been engaged in a continuous struggle to sustain demographic stability. We are free Pakistanis who are known for their struggle and sacrifice and proudly identify with our homeland that still faces difficulty in its existence. We do not allow neighborly politics to deviate us from our struggle to exist.

The struggle for Pakistan through history is still connected to its current political status. Our Prime Minister Imran Khan sees the US viewing Pakistan as useful only in the context of the “mess” it left behind in Afghanistan after 20 years of fighting. Pakistan's regional borders have been affected by wars on terror and the ongoing global cold wars.

The US withdrawal from Afghanistan and its regional brunt are oriented at Pakistan's struggle and strategic survival in that area. Our Foreign Minister Qureshi, in a recent press conference, stated that Pakistan was consistently advocating a reduction in violence and supporting the peace process.

He said Pakistan sympathised with Afghanistan and would support it, but it would not shy from saying “What we believe in because of our clear approach... We have never advocated use of force and we have never shown inclination towards a particular group. We have no favourites,” he stressed.

Our collective optimism has been a powerful force for our achievements. We have struggled through our turbulent history but the main obstacles in our survival lie ahead of us. Our country is a developing one that requires proper plans and implementation not only in politics but other organizations as well.

It survives daily struggles against corruption in different fields. Regardless of the regional turbulence, political turmoil and instability, Pakistanis are a hardworking nation that sustain a great culture and optimism for their independent land.

Our hope and courage shield us from the international conflicts and regional instability. Whether it's our daily endeavors to excel in different fields or our prayers to elevate our artists and athletes during competitions, all the efforts lead the way to move on and celebrate every Independence Day with an enthusiasm that defies all the negativity.

“Throughout history many nations have suffered a physical defeat, but that has never marked the end of a nation. But when a nation has become the victim of a psychological defeat, then that marks the end of a nation.” ~ Ibn Khaldun.

Our founders risked their lives to establish a new homeland where people could fulfil their dreams with freedom and peace. The biggest threat to that dream arises when the willpower to struggle or live with hope dies with fear from daily struggles. As long as people have faith and hope to survive any obstacle that comes their way, the idea of a free dreamland will flourish. There is no better way to celebrate our independence day than by doing what we can with optimism, in our own fields for the existence and prosperity of our country. Pakistan's existence and survival rests above all conspiracies and conflicts, for to lose hope in any way about our homeland would mean a war against all those who dreamed and sacrificed for Pakistan.

“There is no power on earth that can undo Pakistan.” ~ Quaid-i-Azam Mohammad Ali Jinnah.

وفاقی وزیر اطلاعات و نشریات

آج 22 ج 74 ویں آزادی پاکستانی اپنے وطن کا 74 ویں آزادی منارہے ہیں۔ میں اس موقع پر پوری قوم کو مبارکباد پیش کرتا ہوں۔

قائد اعظم کی ولولہ انگیز قیادت میں برصغیر کے مسلمانوں نے دوٹوک طاقت سے علیحدہ وطن حاصل کیا تھا۔ یہ اس بات کا ثبوت ہے کہ جمہوریت ہی پاکستان کی اساس ہے اور عوام کی رائے کا احترام اس کے استحکام کی ضمانت ہے۔ انگریزوں کے تسلط سے آزادی حاصل کرنے کا مقصد صرف سیاسی آزادی کا حصول ہی نہیں تھا بلکہ نئے وطن کے لوگوں کی معاشی و معاشرتی پسماندگی، غربت، جہالت اور ناانصافی کے خاتمے کی بھی نوبت تھی۔ قیام پاکستان کے یہ مقاصد ابھی تک نقشہ تکمیل ہیں۔

وزیر اعظم عمران خان کی قیادت میں موجود حکومت شہریوں اور بالخصوص کم ویلڈ لوگوں کی زندگیوں میں حقیقی تبدیلی لانے کے لئے دن رات کوشاں ہے۔

عالمی برادری میں بھی باوقار مقام حاصل کرنے کے لئے ضروری ہے کہ پاکستان میں تمام شعبہ ہائے زندگی کو جدید دور کے تقاضوں کے مطابق ترقی دی جائے۔ جدید علوم اور سائنس و ٹیکنالوجی سے استفادہ کرتے ہوئے شہریوں کی زندگیوں میں مثبت تبدیلیاں لائی جائیں۔ تعلیم، صحت، انفراسٹرکچر، معیشت اور دیگر شعبوں میں جدید ریسرچ سے استفادہ کیا جائے۔ ٹیکنالوجی کا استعمال عام کیا جائے اس کے نتیجے میں نہ صرف شفافیت کو فروغ حاصل ہوگا بلکہ شہریوں کو مہیا کی جانے والی خدمات کا معیار بھی بہتر ہوگا اور قیام پاکستان کے مقاصد کے حصول کی جانب حقیقی پیش رفت بھی ہوگی۔ میں ایم آزادی کے موقع پر ایک بار پھر پوری قوم کو مبارکباد پیش کرتا ہوں اور دعا کرتا ہوں کہ اللہ تعالیٰ پاکستان کو ترقی، خوشحالی اور استحکام عطا فرمائے۔ آمین۔

وزیر اعظم اسلامی جمہوریہ پاکستان

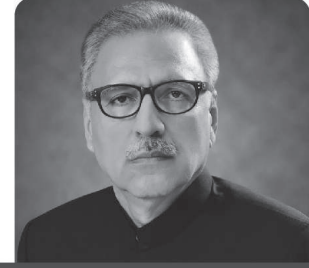

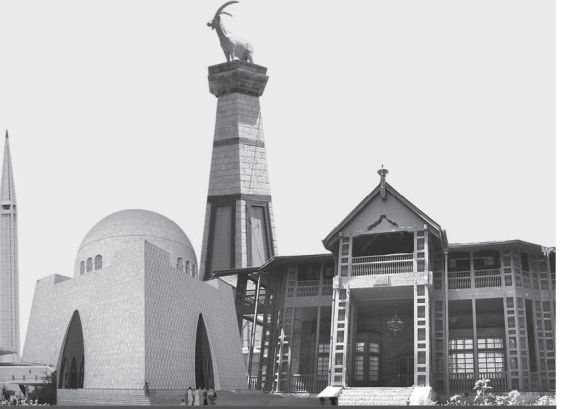

ایم آزادی کے موقع پر قومی پرچم اہراتے ہوئے آج ہمیں قائد اعظم محمد علی جناح کے روشن عظیم، ایمان اور اتحاد کی قومی اقدار کو برقرار رکھنے کے عزم کا اعادہ کرنا چاہئے۔ ہمیں اپنی کئی تاریخ میں بڑے بڑے چیلنجز پیش آئے جن میں ہم متحدہ پران اور پر عزم قوم کے طور پر ابھرے۔ حتیٰ کہ آج بھی اندرون ملک درپیش مسائل کے ساتھ ساتھ خطہ کی باہمی صورتحال ہمارے اس عزم کا امتحان ہے۔ ہمیشہ کی طرح ہم اپنے عزم کی بدولت ان رکاوٹوں پر قابو پائیں گے اور مشروطہ قوم کے طور پر ابھریں گے۔

پاکستان آج بھی اقوام عالم کے ساتھ کھڑا ہو سکتا ہے۔ معیشت، گورنہ و باہر قابو پانے اور ماحولیاتی تحفظ ہمارے ہماری پالیسیوں کو دنیا بھر میں پُر مانی ملی ہے۔ اس موقع پر ہمیں اپنے کشمیری، بلوچ بھائیوں کو نہیں بھولنا چاہئے، جہاں اپنی ناساعد حالات اور بھارتی غیر قانونی قبضہ میں داخل ہیں، جہاں اپنے حق خوراداریت کے لئے جدوجہد کر رہے ہیں۔ پاکستان کشمیریوں کے منصفانہ کارکنے کے لئے اپنی بھرپور حمایت جاری رکھے گا، کشمیری اپنے ساتھ گئے وعدے پورے کرنے کے لئے اس وقت بھی عالمی برادری کی طرف دیکھ رہے ہیں۔

پاکستان نے اپنی مغربی سرحدوں پر غیر مطمئن صورتحال کے باعث بڑی قربانیاں دی ہیں اور اس کی بھارتی قیادت چکانی ہے ہم نے ہمیشہ اس بات پر مسلسل اسرار کیا ہے کہ افغانستان کے تنازعہ کو فوجی حل نہیں ہے افغانستان میں دیر پا امن و استحکام کے لئے پاکستان افغان تنازعہ کے مذاکرات سے سیاسی حل کی حمایت جاری رکھے گا۔ ہم امن چاہتے ہیں اور امن کے بغیر ہم اپنے معاشی و سماجی ایجنڈے پر عمل نہیں کر سکتے۔ پاکستان میں ہماری تمام تر توجیہ پالیسیوں سے اب نتیجہ آنا کس پر مرکوز ہوگی ہے۔ جس میں ہم اولین ترجیح کے طور پر پاکستانی عوام کی تلاش و وجود اور خوشحالی پر توجہ دے رہے ہیں۔ ہماری حکومت نے پاکستان کی ترقی و خوشحالی کے لئے ہر ممکن کوششیں کی ہیں۔

ڈاکٹر عارف علوی
صدر، اسلامی جمہوریہ پاکستان

میں پاکستان کے 74 ویں آزادی کے پرست موقع پر اپنے ہم وطنوں کی خوشی میں برابر کا شریک ہوں۔ اس دن ہم اپنے قوم کا عظیم عہد ملی جناح اور نیک پاکستان کے رہنماؤں اور کارکنان، جنہوں نے برصغیر پاک و ہند کے مسلمانوں کے لیے ٹیٹھروں، وطن کی تشکیل کی، انہیں پورے نیشنل جین کر کے ہیں۔

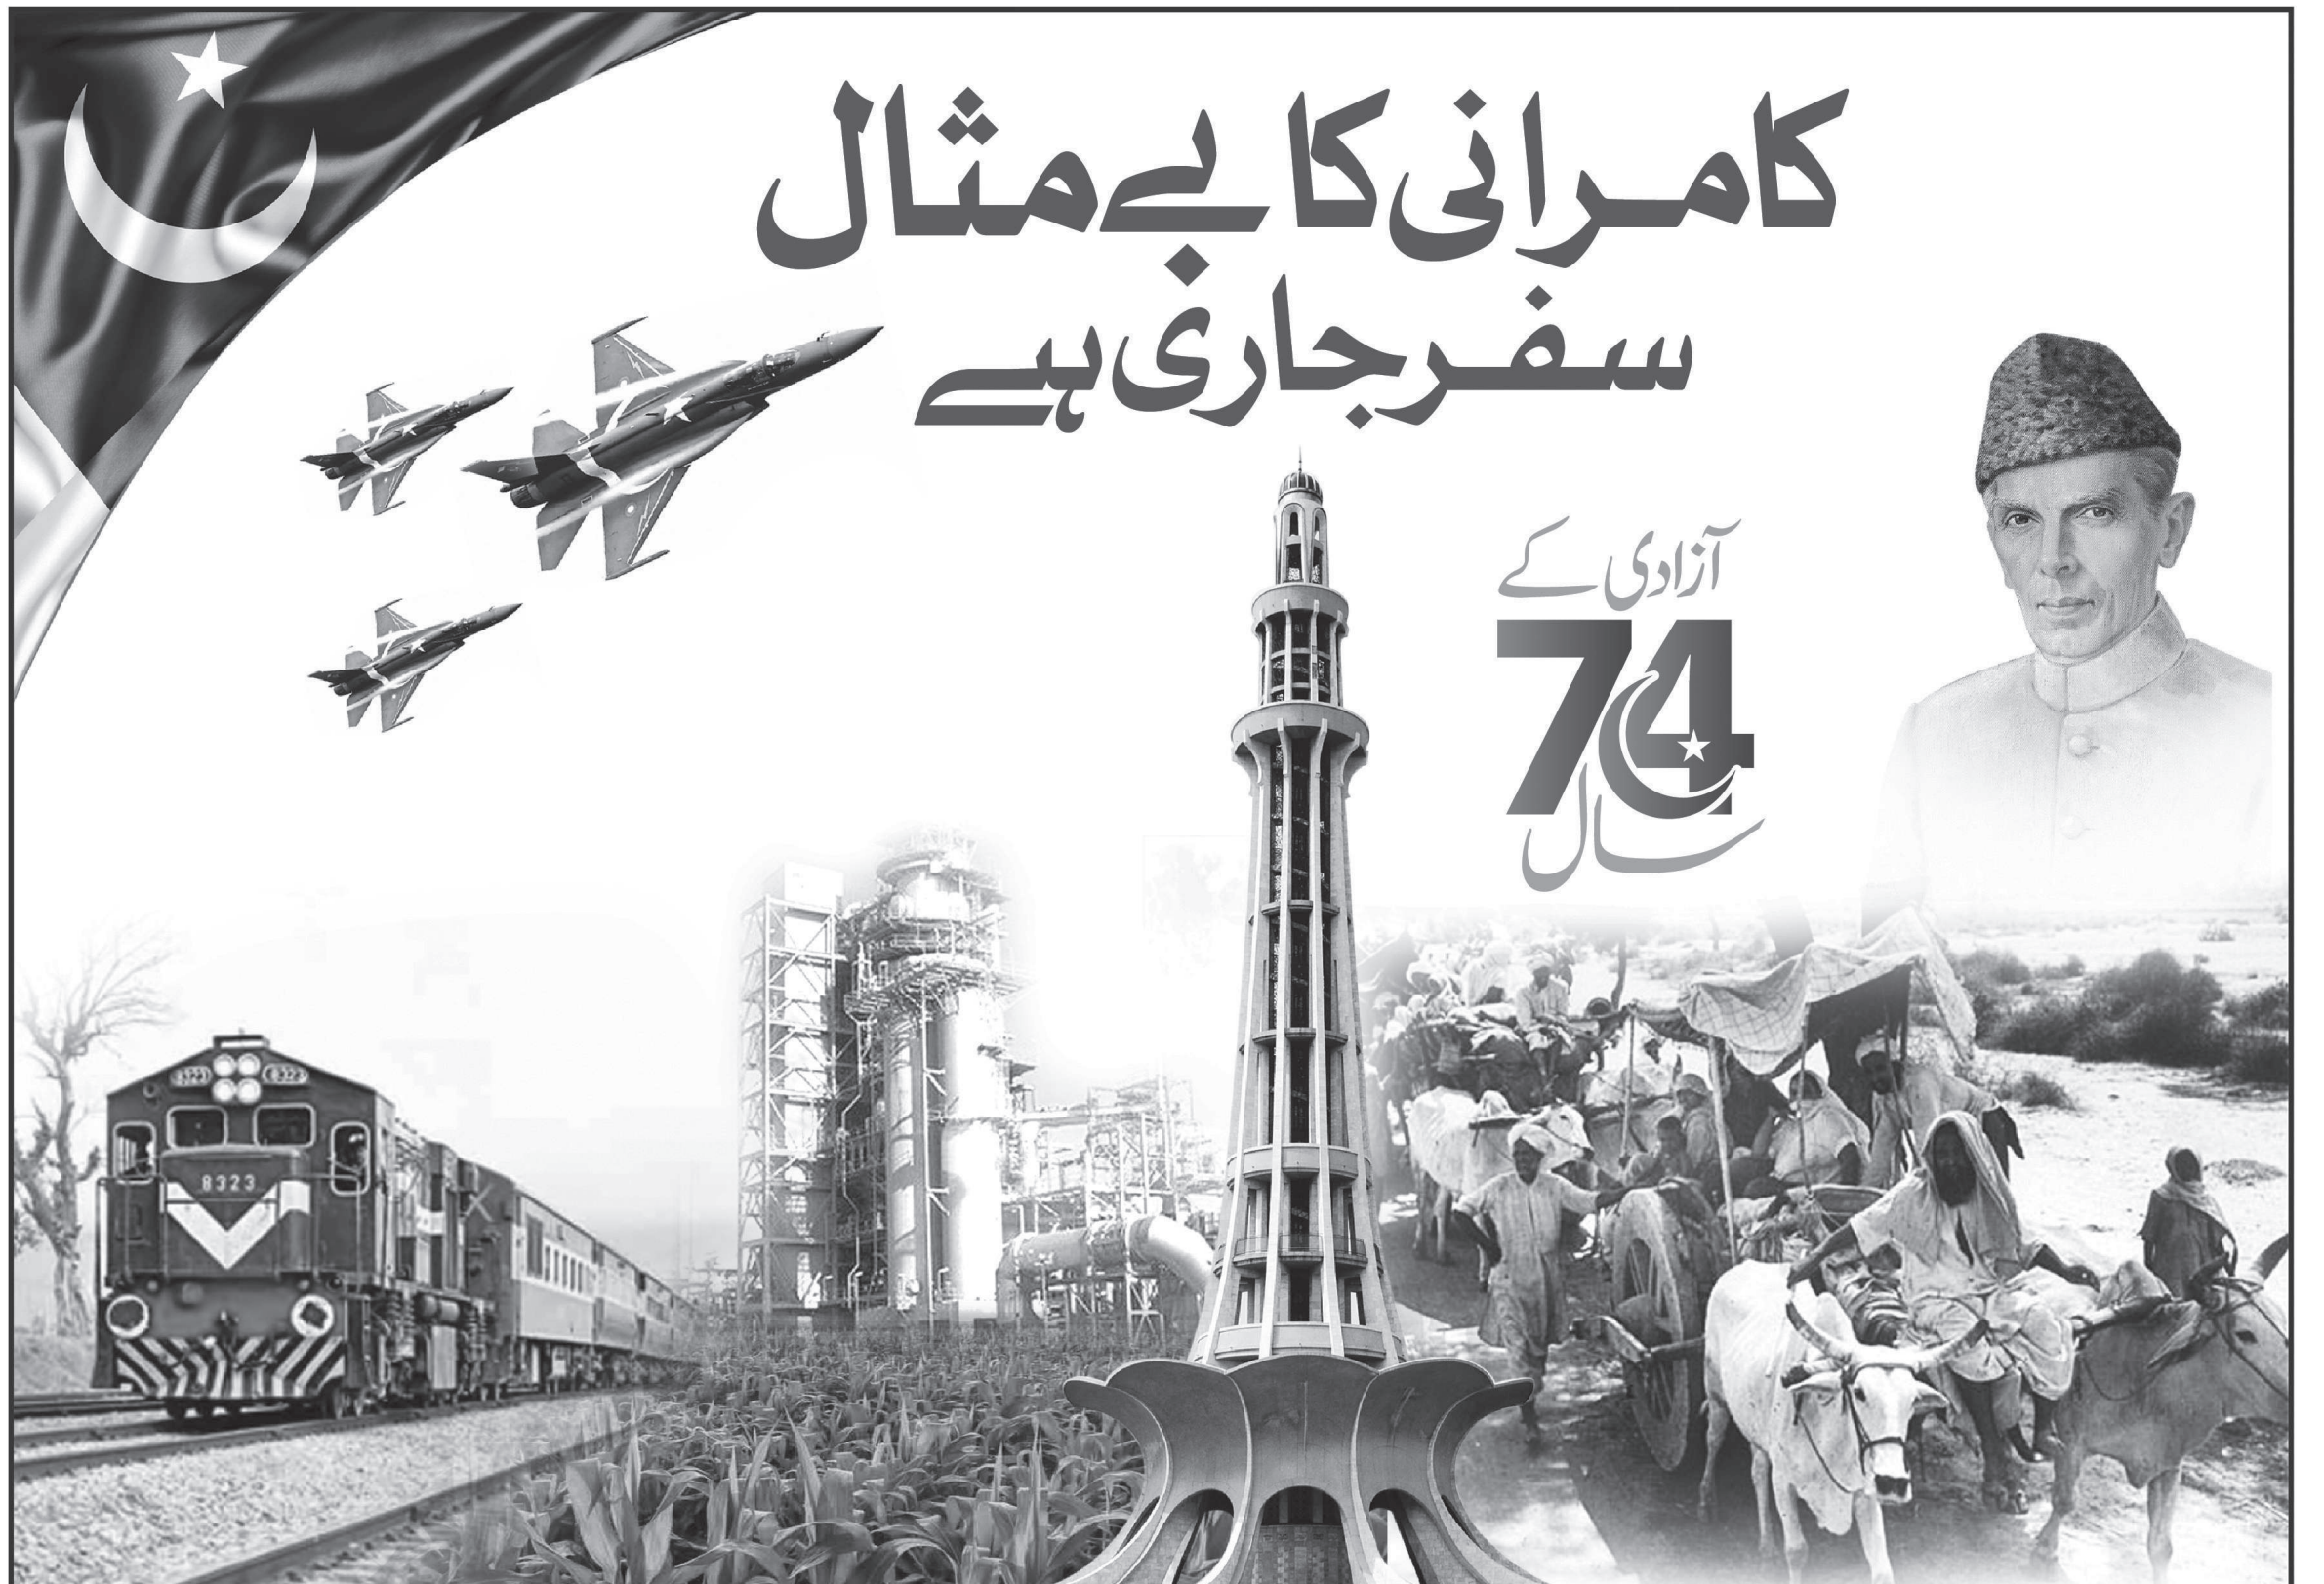

اپنے 74 سالہ سفر کے دوران، پاکستان نے بہت سے چیلنجز کا سامنا کیا مگر ہم اپنی محنت، قربان اور قوم کے تقاضوں سے ان چیلنجز میں سرخرو ہوئے۔ پاکستانی قوم ایک ذہین اور بہادر قوم ہے اور مختلف شعبہ جات میں ہماری نمایاں کامیابیاں ہمیں دوسری اقوام سے متاثر کرتی ہیں۔ دنیا کو اس کی تعریف کرنا ہوگی کہ پاکستان نے انفرادی طور پر دہشت گردی کے خلاف طویل جنگ لڑی اور بالآخر اس فریت کو شکست دی۔ اسی طرح پاکستان کا جوہری طاقت بننا بھی ایک بڑی کامیابی ہے اور جوہری صلاحیتوں نے ملک کے دفاع کو ناقابل تہیہ بنا دیا ہے۔ یہ امر بھی قابل ذکر ہے کہ پاکستان کی واپس سے لاکھوں افغان پناہ گزینوں کی بھرتی کر رہا ہے۔ علاوہ ازیں، گورنہ و باہر کے خلاف پاکستان کے مؤثر اقدامات کو بھی عالمی سطح سراہا گیا۔ گورنہ و باہر کے خلاف اس عظیم کامیابی پر شکر ادا کر رہے ہیں۔ علمائے کرام، سینے پائے پھل سکا پائے آہرین ستر، سیکورٹی فورسز اور پوری قوم کو نرا نیشنل جین کرنا ہوں۔ ہمارے معاشی اشاریوں میں بہتری آنے کے اثرات ہمیں کچھ پہنچنا شروع ہو گئے ہیں۔

ان کامیابیوں کے باوجود، پاکستان کو اب بھی سماجی اور معاشی چیلنجز کا سامنا ہے۔ ان چیلنجز میں بڑھتی ہوئی آبادی، صحت اور تعلیم کی سہولیات کا فقدان، ذہنی و جسمانی نشوونما میں کمی، غذائیت کی کمی اور دیگر بنیادی مسائل ہیں۔ یہ ایک مسلسل نوازا امر ہے کہ حکومت نے ترقیوں اور بہتری کی فراہمی کے ذریعے نوجوان اور معذور افراد کو معاشی طور پر با اختیار بنانے کے لیے اقدامات کیے ہیں۔ مزید برآں حکومت نے معاشرے کے ہر ماہرہ طبقات کو تعلیم، صحت اور مالی امداد کی فراہمی کیلئے "اساس پروگرام" کے تحت سماجی بہبود کے مختلف منصوبے شروع کیے ہیں۔ تاہم، ہمیں خصوصی آزادی سہولت، ملاح و بہبود اور وراثت میں خواتین کے حقوق کی فراہمی بھی بنانے کیلئے مزید کوششیں کرنے کی ضرورت ہے۔

اس ایم آزادی کے موقع پر، ہم تنازعہ میں کشمیر پر کشمیریوں کی اطمینانی، سیاسی اور سفارتی حمایت جاری رکھنے کے عزم کی بھی تجدید کرتے ہیں۔ ہم اپنے کشمیری بھائیوں کو یقین دلاتے ہیں کہ پاکستان اقوام متحدہ کی سلامتی کونسل کی قراردادوں کے مطابق ان کے حق خوراداریت کے حصول تک ان کے ساتھ کھڑا رہے گا۔ میں جینا، الاوقاتی برادری سے بھی اعلیٰ اہلیت رکھنے والے گورنہ و باہر کے وجود، معیشت و تہذیب کے لیے نوا مسلمانوں کے خلاف انسانی حقوق کی خلاف ورزیاں بند کرنے اور کشمیریوں کو ان کا حق خوراداریت دینے کا وعدہ پورا کرے۔

آئیے، ہم بھر کر یہ قائد اعظم محمد علی جناح کی نظریات پر عمل پیرا ہوں گے کہ پاکستان کے اتحاد و خوشحالی کے لیے کام کریں گے۔ اللہ ہم سب کا حامی و ناصر ہو۔ آمین!

Afghan diplomat slams Ghani for Afghan collapse

FOREIGN DESK

KABUL: Omar Zakhilwal, former ambassador of Afghanistan to Pakistan, blamed Ghani for the country's "rapid collapse" as the Taliban continue to make swift advances and conquer more territory. In a series of tweets, Zakhilwal blamed Ashraf Ghani's misuse of authority, rampant corruption for reducing the Afghan state to "personal fiefdom". The former ambassador lashed out at the Afghan president, saying that he had spent years on promoting his image as the "greatest leader" Afghanistan ever had and the "second-most intellectual person in the world". He listed some of Ghani's failed tactics during his rule, mainly excessive repeated violation of the constitution, nepotism, instilling political and national divisiveness, deliberate politicisation and "demoralisation of state institutions, political conspiracies, sabotaging of successive opportunities". He said due to Ghani's self-promotion, the Afghan security forces today were fighting to protect the state or to ensure Ghani stays in power for another term.

CAA has allowed the private airlines to set up rapid coronavirus testing stalls by private laboratories on seven airports as the United Arab Emirates made it a condition to get fresh rapid PCR test results before boarding the flights. According to the development, Karachi, Islamabad, Lahore, Peshawar, Faisalabad, Multan, and Quetta airports to have the facility for rapid testing. CAA said the Karachi's domestic arrival lounge will have the testing space for the facility of rapid PCR test as well. The private labs outsourced by the airlines will conduct these tests, CAA said.

Pakistan wants broad-based partnership with the US

"We want to build long term, broad-based, comprehensive and mutually beneficial partnerships, rather than having transactional relations"

SAIFULLAH

ISLAMABAD: Pakistan on Friday said it wanted to build a broad-based partnership with the United States, rather than the transactional relations. "We want to build long term, broad-based, comprehensive and mutually beneficial partnerships, rather than having transactional relations," the Foreign Office Spokesperson said at a weekly press briefing here at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. He was responding to a question regarding a statement of Prime Minister Imran Khan as saying, "the US was considering Pakistan good only to clear the mess in Afghanistan". "Pakistan had repeatedly stated that neither should Pakistan be looked at through the prism of another country, nor should our relations be viewed narrowly," he said. The FO Spokesperson said Pakistan would take all such decisions and pursue policies that were in its national interest and contribute to peace and prosperity in the region and beyond. He said Pakistan and the United States had a history of close cooperative relations, adding that the cooperative relationship had served the interests of both the countries. "We have convergence of views and interests on a number of key issues including the ongoing Afghan Peace Process. We both believe that there's no military solution to the conflict in Afghanistan," he said. FO Spokesperson said both Pakistan and the United States supported an inclusive, broad-based and comprehensive political settlement in Afghanistan through a process that was owned and led by Afghan themselves. He said Pakistan played a key role in facilitating the US-Taliban agreement for peace in Afghanistan in February last year. "We consider the United States a friend and want broad-based relations to achieve our shared objectives of peace and prosperity in the region and beyond," he said. To a question on Extended Troika, he said Pakistan would continue to support it to bring lasting peace and stability in Afghanistan. "Pakistan will continue to engage in this platform to undertake collective efforts to expedite the peace process," he said. The Special Representatives of Pakistan, the United States, China and Russia met in Qatar's capital of Doha on Wednesday to discuss the worsening situation in Afghanistan. Spokesperson Zahid Hafeez Chaudhri said the members of the Extended Troika discussed the deteriorating security situation in Afghanistan and explored ways of expediting intra-Afghan peace. He said talks were held for achieving an inclusive political settlement and bringing an end to the four decades long conflict in Afghanistan. He mentioned that the delegations of Afghanistan led by head of the High Council for National Reconciliation Dr. Abdullah Abdullah and the Taliban led by Mullah Baradar also had interaction with the Extended Troika. FO Spokesperson said the Extended Troika countries broadly conveyed to the Afghan sides that there was a need for "urgent measures to reduce violence leading to a ceasefire". It was stressed that there was no military solution to the Afghan conflict and the Afghan sides should put forward their peace plans on priority basis so that progress was made towards a political roadmap, he added. He mentioned that the need for all sides to respect human rights and not indulging in human rights violations was also stressed upon.

Erdogan visits Turkish flood victims

AGENCIES

ISTANBUL: The death toll from Turkey's flash floods soared to 27 on Friday as President Recep Tayyip Erdogan visited one of the hardest-hit cities to lead a prayer for the victims and pledge government help. The devastation across Turkey's northern Black Sea regions came just as the disaster-hit country was winning control over hundreds of wildfires that killed eight people and destroyed swathes of forest along its scenic southern coast. A previous spate of flooding killed six people last month in the northeastern province of Rize. Scientists believe such natural disasters are becoming more intense and frequent because of global warming caused by polluting emissions.

PML-N blasts govt over Twitter trends report

ZUBAIR AHMAD

ISLAMABAD: The PML-N on Friday raised doubts about the credibility of a report released by the government earlier this week regarding manipulative use of social media accounts to defame Pakistan, calling it "extremely misleading and shoddy". Reacting to the report at a press conference today, senior PML-N leader Shahid Khaqan Abbasi claimed that a Canada-based company which the government had cited as the source of the data had confirmed that it had neither sold any data to Pakistan nor provided it in any capacity.

He said the Canadian firm made this revelation in a statement given to Geo News programme 'Aaj Shahzeb Khanzada Kay Sath'. "This shows that the government in Pakistan either stole the data or made it up on its own," he alleged. He said the data should have been garnered from a credible source or through own research. The former prime minister noted that the government had mentioned several hashtags and trends in the report, but "it didn't elaborate the content written under the hashtags, whether it was in favour of Pakistan or against the current government's corruption." He regretted that a major part of the report targeted politicians and political parties with representation in the National Assembly and the Senate and that they had been labelled as "enemies of Pakistan". He also pointed out that a map shown in the report five to six times allegedly showed Kashmir as part of India. "Did these ministers take a look at the report before making it public?" he asked. Abbasi said it was "shocking" to note that criticism of the government's alleged corruption was dubbed as a matter of national security. He said political leaders like Afrasiab Khattak, Bushra Gohar, Rehman Malik, Farhatullah Babar and many others were being labelled as enemies of the state just because "they talk about democracy." He said the country's problems could not be resolved through tweets and "concocted" reports.

IMF allocations to take forex reserves to historic high level: SBP

"We were in deep scramble in 2017-18 when our CAD went up to $19b or 6% of GDP"

SHUJAAT HAMZA

ISLAMABAD: Governor State Bank of Pakistan (SBP), Reza Baqir said Friday that the foreign exchange reserves of the central bank would reach to the historic high level once the country receives $2.77 billion on August 23 from International Monetary Fund's (IMF) general allocations of $ 650 billion that had been approved to boost global liquidity amid the coronavirus pandemic. Addressing a press conference, Baqir said that earlier, the highest reserves of $19.5 billion were recorded in year 2016. Appreciating the International Monetary Fund's step for providing global liquidity, the SBP Governor said that this was a happy news, which he said would help improve country's reserves and have very positive impact on various economic indicators. He said the increase in reserves would help provide coverage to imports into the country, saying that since the country was currently in recovery mode, hence needed more imports. He said that the inclusion of $2.77 billion would also help enhance the net international reserves of the country, which is also positive sign for the country's economy. It is pertinent to mention here that the Board of Governors of the International Monetary Fund had approved a general allocation of Special Drawing Rights (SDRs) equivalent to US$650 billion (about SDR 456 billion) to boost global liquidity. The allocation would benefit all members, address the long-term global need for reserves, build confidence, and foster the resilience and stability of the global economy. It would particularly help most vulnerable countries struggling to cope with the impact of the COVID-19 crisis. Referring to apprehensions raised by some of the economists about rising trend of Current Account Deficit, Governor SBP Reza Baqir said the deficit would likely remain at 2-3% of GDP during current year which is a moderate ratio. Moderate increase is a good sign for economy provided that it should remain sustainable, he said adding "We were in deep scramble in 2017-18 when our CAD went up to $19 billion or 6% of GDP". The Governor said there were three signs when the economy could be in trouble due to rising current account deficit. First alarming bell, he said was that amid growing CAD, fluctuation in the exchange rate was high and non-adjustable.

Britain chides US over Afghan pullout

FOREIGN DESK

LONDON: Britain on Friday branded US President Joe Biden's decision to press on with pulling troops from Afghanistan as "a mistake," warning the country is on the brink of a civil war. In a rare criticism of the UK's key NATO ally, British Defense Minister Ben Wallace warned that the withdrawal "leaves a very big problem on the ground." Wallace said the drawdown would benefit al-Qaida, who were given safe haven by the Taliban before the 9/11 attacks in 2001 that prompted the West's 20-year involvement in Afghanistan. "I'm absolutely worried that failed states are breeding grounds for those type of people," he told the broadcaster Sky News. "Of course al-Qaida will probably come back," he said, warning that would lead to "a security threat to us and our interests." He later told the BBC that Afghanistan is "heading towards a civil war." Speaking in a separate interview with the LBC radio station, Wallace refused to rule out British troops returning if terror groups started using Afghanistan as a base to launch attacks.
